The regular meeting of the local town council was held on Monday night, with Mayor McLeod and Councillors Gillis, McVey, Bartlett, Montalbet, McDonald and Picciariello present.

The minutes of previous meeting were approved as read and the following accounts were passed for payment: M. Brown $35.00, Petty Cash $24.40, H. Davies $11.50, C. Ponsort $17.60, Supplementary Tax to provincial secretary $203.38, F. Irwin $13.50, P. M. Christophers $18.75, A. McLeod, $33.00, R. Crayford $1.00.

Communication from Blairmore Trading Co., re transient traders, was ordered filed.

Communication from department of municipal affairs, suggesting the employment of W. D. Spence as assessor, was filed.

Application from Blairmore Hardware Co. for permission to erect an air-pipe extension, was referred to the Works and Property Committee.

Councillor Gillis gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would introduce a by-law to amend By-Law No. 4, respecting club license.

A report was received from the medical health officer, recommending that the sanitary by laws of the town be more rigidly enforced and that a clean-up day be proclaimed as soon as conditions would permit. The number of deaths occurred during the year 1920 was 18. The general health of the community now was as good as could be expected.

C. D. MacIntosh, superintendent of the Lethbridge division of the C. P. R., wrote in reply to letter from the secretary, in part as follows: "With regard to the wooden platform, he could not see his way to put a long plank platform at Blairmore and felt that once the timber platform was constructed, we would have every facility. He was unable to give a definite statement as to the lighting at the depot, and would look into the matter the first occasion he had of travelling through Blairmore at night. He was pleased to have the co-operation of the council and felt that with such, both the town and the company would be benefited."

What the town-council requested from the Company was:
1. To provide a plank platform for station accommodation from Fifth Avenue to 6th Avenue, and under thence directly north to Victoria Street.
2. To improve, with assistance of the Council the grounds on the north side of track between the above mentioned avenues, by leveling, grading, etc. and to supply what trees and shrubbery may be required.

Also what fencing may hereafter be considered necessary, the town undertaking so far as possible to protect same from damage.

It was suggested by the council that to avoid closing Fifth Avenue crossing a dip could be made to Fifth and Sixth avenues, allowing the regulation width and height of platform between the avenues for the benefit of passengers leaving or boarding westbound trains.

GOVERNMENT WILL IMPROVE SLIDE ROAD

A couple of road engineers are in the Pass this week and are looking over the road through the Slide. We understand that an appropriation of funds has been made to be spent on the Slide road, and the engineers will decide as to whether this money be spent on the present right-of-way, or whether a new route should be opened up. The general feeling locally is that a new road should be built along the north side of and parallel with the C.P.R., and that money spent on the present road is simply money thrown away.

UNION CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Anniversary services will be conducted at the Union Church on Sunday, April 3rd, and the speaker will be the Rev. H. Rosenworth of Canby, Minn. Mr. Rosenworth is an able speaker and you should not miss hearing him.

THE EVENT OF THE SEASON

One of the most attractive event of the season is scheduled for Blairmore when the Arlie Marks Co. appears at the Opera House on March 28th and 29th in the latest metropolitan successes. Arlie Marks, properly termed "everybody's favorite," and whose entrance into comedy stardom has been accorded unprecedented approval among Canadian theatre-goers, is a daughter of the famous comedian, Tom Marks. Miss Marks is well supported by some well known and high-salaried artists. Jane Lamb, late of the Chicago Stock Co., and who is in great demand in the profession; Anna Lynch, who has been very prominent in the best of stock companies; Adelaide Seeger, known from coast to coast as the little stage mother; and Leona Kendall, late of the Robin Hood Stock Co. of Toronto. Among the male members is such artists as Dan J. Randall, Marshall Hale, Barlow Crawford, Linden C. Heverly, Chris. C. Allen, James Lynch and Lindsay E. Parrin.

One of the features of Miss Marks' show is there is no waits between acts, so noticeable in other road shows, as there is five acts of vaudeville to fill between the acts of the play with such features as Madame Salome, the girl with the thousand eyes; the great Heverly, the hand-clapping king, who like love laughs at locksmiths; Lindsay Parrin, the dancing demon; Hale and Lamb, the clown dispellers and Barlow Crawford, who sings to beat the band. Miss Marks is presenting latest successes at popular prices within the reach of all.

Sir Harry Lauder has returned from a four years' tour of British dominions except India. During this tour he has made $575,000 for the British cause and his wife has made $30,000 for the same cause outside theatres at which he was appearing.

Taxation in Canada

Third Article.

The more exhaustively any study is made of the whole question of taxation in Canada, the stronger does the view prevail that under existing circumstances two main reforms are imperative. In the first place, radical changes should be effected in the methods now employed in the imposition and collection of the Income Tax in order that a simple, inexpensive and practical system be substituted for the present elaborate, expensive and highly confusing one.

Secondly, and even more important in its effects on business and as a means of raising the large revenues now required without imposing too great a burden on anyone, and to bring about that equality of treatment which is essential in order to remove existing feelings of bitterness against all taxation because of so many evidences of injustice, one uniform tax should be imposed and present levies on business removed.

Is there one simple, uniform method that can be applied which will operate with absolute fairness all round and at the same time be capable of producing a large revenue, easily collectible and at a minimum of expense both to the Government and the taxpayer?

We believe there is, and that it is to be found in a fixed uniform tax on the turnover in all lines of business. The introduction of such a tax is growing in favor in the United States, and, to the extent that it has been applied in Canada, it is operating satisfactorily and with a minimum of expense and friction.

The plan proposed is extremely simple. It is that everybody engaged in business, large or small, manufacturing, wholesale, jobbing, retail, lawyers, doctors and professional men generally, transportation and financial corporations—in a word, everybody who renders service to the public and receives pay for the same shall pay a small tax on the gross turnover of the business in which they are engaged.

At the end of each month everyone who has made sales of any kind whatever would figure up the total amount of such sales, make out a check for 1 per cent. of the amount, and forward it to the Government. All that would be necessary would be for the Government department to compile a complete list of all persons engaged in business in Canada, and check up that list monthly, or quarterly, to see that proper remittances of the tax were being made. If there is one thing a man in business cannot well hide it is the volume of his turnover. Profits may be hidden, expenses may be inflated, camouflage may be indulged in in many ways, but the gross turnover of a business stands out clear and distinct. At the end of the calendar year, the Government might require that an annual statement of turnover—that is of gross sales—be submitted.

One per cent. on the turnover of all business in Canada would unquestionably produce an enormous revenue, possibly more than would be required. One-half of one per cent. might be sufficient. But whatever the amount of the tax it would be levied fairly and equitably on everybody, and there would be no necessity for the elaborate system now prevailing, nor for imposing on business the obligation and expense inseparable from the complicated system of returns and reports now demanded by the Finance Department.

Such a tax would be the essence of simplicity; it could not fail to be understood and easily grasped; it would apply to one and all alike, whereas present systems are distressingly complicated and manifestly unfair in their application.

The collection of the tax would be automatic and undisturbing, offering a sharp contrast to the present disturbing and highly expensive system. The distribution of the burden of taxation would be just, falling like the rain. Those who consume the most and spend most would pay the most taxes, because, in the final analysis, all taxes are paid by the ultimate consumer and purchaser.

The revenue derived by the Government would not be dependent upon fluctuating periods of prosperity and depression in business, as it is when based on profits. The purchases of the people will, of course, vary somewhat, but the variation is not so great as to seriously affect the gross sales upon which the tax would be levied.

Any tax will increase prices to some extent, but a small tax on gross turnover will operate to enhance prices to a lesser degree than do existing forms of taxation now imposed on the business of the country.

Present extravagant methods in the business of the country are encouraged by the desire to spend what would otherwise become profits subject to taxation. Old-fashioned business economy and enterprise would again come to the front and thrive. The old incentive to enterprise and expansion would return.

And because the tax load would be spread equally over the whole population, it would be accepted without murmur and that resentment and bitterness of feeling which now is so prevalent because of a sense of injustice that while now one man pays the last cent due from him, the dishonest man gets off lightly through his dishonesty.

A Curious Rent.

The oddity of all the queer rents on the King of England's rent-book is the one which requires the tenants of certain lands near Dover to hold the king's head when he is sick. As King George is a sailor king, and has traveled farther by thousands of miles, than any other monarch on record, it is not likely that he will call on anybody to pay this curious rent.

To Curb Mosquitoes.

Many odd and bizarre uses for the airplane have been suggested and tried out, but the extermination of mosquitoes by their uses is perhaps the oddest proposition yet proposed. This idea is being planned by the provincial government. An aerial survey of the Fraser River delta as the first step in a scheme to curb the annual swarms of mosquitoes has been ordered.

Agricultural Exports

Professor Arkell Urges Farmers to Regain Lost Ground.

Professor H. S. Arkell, Dominion livestock commissioner, addressing the agricultural section of the chamber of commerce at Hamilton, urged upon the farmers the necessity of defeating their competitors in the export market and deplored the fact that Canada had lost seriously in its export trade since the war. "Other countries were now supplying the agricultural products which Canada should be supplying," Commissioner Arkell said. "Canada's prosperity depends upon its ability to increase its export trade in agricultural products," he said.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED

As a Result of Treating the Trouble Through the Blood.

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic people suffer, and pain that can be avoided by building up the blood; when rheumatism is associated with thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Hall, Main-a-Dieu, N.S., suffered from rheumatism for years, but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he was cured of his rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for me. My leg and foot were confined to bed for three years and a helpless cripple from the trouble. I could not move, and had to be turned in sheets. My legs and fingers were drawn out of shape, and sores developed on my body as the result of my long confinement to bed."

"I was in this serious condition when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began taking them. The first benefit I felt from the pill was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger, and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I was always lame, as the result of my long stay in bed, but my leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work at Fishery Overlook."

"You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

The Spare Tire

Should Always Be Covered With a Case for Protection Against the Weather.

The car owner who carries a spare tire—and a great many of them do—unprotected on the car is laying up trouble for himself. Even if no serious accident happens, dust collects on the inside of the spare casing and is turned to mud by the first shower. Then when the casing is called into service the inner tube will be rubbed against the hard deposit of mud, with chafing and a speedy blow as the result. Cases for the spare tire cost little, and they should always be used to protect and preserve the spare tire for its day of service.

Starting a Home on $1,000

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

A letter has come from an earnest little woman, going to be an Easter bride and contemplating what she should buy for a modest home.

She writes: "We have just one thousand dollars. We thought of placing five hundred dollars in the bank as a sort of reserve or emergency fund, and of expending the other five hundred on our home."

And she asks suggestions. The real home is a development—a growth. And with such limited capital it is far better to buy a few furnishings of excellent quality and add to them.

Let us start with the kitchen. You will want one or two chairs, one preferably a chair which folds into a ladder. They may be purchased unfinished and painted and enameled by yourself.

In selecting pots and pans go slowly. When you start, as the good advice for a pot or a can-opener or anything else, let it down. It is not necessary to cover the floor with linoleum. Better wait. When you have more money to spare you can buy the inlaid linoleum at about two dollars a yard. It will last fifteen years.

The next consideration is the bedroom. Twin beds are a little more expensive, but desirable. In case of illness one bed can be moved to another room. Metal beds now come in artistic designs and one should at least look at them before deciding upon wooden beds. But, whatever the wood or the metal of the frame, put your money into the best springs and mattresses and pillows you can afford. Rather economize by buying plain white enamel metal bedsteads, but do not consider cheap mattresses or springs.

A dressing table and a chiffonier are substantial pieces that warrant an expenditure. A small chair and perhaps a willow armchair are desirable. One or two small rugs in a neutral color may be allowed out of the furnishing money.

And then you will want to start your living room. The first piece to purchase is a fair-sized mahogany gate-leg table. Then select a wing or fireside chair. This may be covered in a rich brown design. It may be covered and re-covered from time to time.

In a former article entitled Swan River to York Factory I had described the picturesque situation of Swan River House at the north end of Swan Lake, the Swan River emptying into the south side of the lake. Here at the mouth of the river was a small settlement of half-breeds and Indians. It was the summer of 1874 and Mr. Angus MacBeth whom I had succeeded in charge of the post, had advanced some Indians rather heavily. These men were living at Duck Bay on Lake Winnipegosis and he did not see them before his departure, which was hurried. MacBeth had impressed on me before leaving about the necessity of collecting these debts if at all possible, as there was an ugly rumor current in H. B. C. circles that postmasters were to be made responsible for outstanding accounts.

Being very busy getting the brigade of eight boats off to York, and then having other matters to attend to, it was finally well on in July before I was able to make the trip. There were no available men at the post, except my cook, Murdo, and after impressing on him the extent and result of the company's policy in my absence, I took my gun and bedding with some provisions and paddled over to the mouth of Swan River. Here I was fortunate in securing a very dark Indian, known as Black Ba'tese, who knew the country, both in English and in his own language, and I was very much pleased to see him. We left my small bark and took his double canoe, paddled across to the east side of the lake, cached our canoe, made up two small packs of bedding and provisions and started across what was called a summer portage, but a faint trail only showed in places. Late that evening we reached the shores of Winnipegosis and after firing a few shots to which there was no response, we made a thorough search and finally found an old canoe, which after the gun was patched a bit, would, Ba'tese thought, take us to the Indian camp. It was a leaky craft and I was kept busy between baling and paddling, but we made our destination all right and found the Indians at home. They did not look too well pleased at my appearance, for no doubt they thought with MacBeth leaving the debts might be forgotten. They were, however, hospitable enough, and were guests of the headman whose name was A-ta-pis-ka-what. I noticed a smile on Ba'tese's face while dinner was being cooked, and in a hoarse whisper he asked me, "You like dog, you? Does what to eat you mean? Good heavens, no!" "Well," was his grinning reply, "that is what we are going to have for dinner. Ba'tese was right, and in a short time we received bountiful helpings of what I must say was a very nice meal, and gathering up courage I tasted it, and there was nothing wrong about that. Still, there was the idea, so I simple toyed with my share. Our host noticed that I was not enjoying my dinner, spoke to one of the girls, who shortly entered the tepee and placed beside us a splendid dish of ripe raspberries, it being berry season. But the vessel that they were in fascinated me, and I gazed and gazed at it. While, with yellow stripes, hand and all, the kind of china, like an emerald green under the bed. Ba'tese, smiling again, whispered: "It is all right and has only been used for cooking; not what you think," and with that my suspicions were relieved and I made a hearty meal off the berries.

After our repast with all its surprises I went fully into the question of trade. The amount due the company was some £86, and to my surprise and delight nearly the whole amount was put up in furs. Bear skins, beaver, otter, mink, fisher and marten all figured in it as well as musquash; prime furs all evidently killed in the spring. The fine fur alone made two bulky little packs, so we decided to leave the muskrats as they were heavy, with a promise that they would be brought in later to the post. They took us over to the mainland in the morning and, having arranged our packs (mine being a good deal the lightest) off we went for home. Ba'tese's lameness and his heavy pack now began to tell and I could make very much better time. The walking was good; the soil being sandy, and there was little underbrush. On coming over we had noted many bear tracks as Bruin no doubt had gathered in for a berry feast, for bears are proverbially fond of berries. In addition to the raspberries, the ridges were covered in places with blueberry bushes. I would walk fast, leave Ba'tese a good distance, then slip my pack and feast on berries until he caught me up.

The German had clouded over and a light drizzle commenced to fall. I was carrying my gun and had some bullets handy in a buckskin shot pouch in case of sighting any big game. I was some distance ahead making for a ridge which promised blueberries when I noticed a huge bear track going in our direction and evidently very fresh. The tracks are very much like a human foot, only the heel is narrower and the claws make deeper indentations. Just as I reached the berries and was stooping down to gather a handful, something moved right ahead of me, and as I crouched and stared it resolved itself into a large grizzly colored bear with its hand quarters towards me and busy gathering in the berries with his forepaws. He was a monster all right and my hair stood up with excitement. Tugging at the strings of my shot pouch, I pulled them into a hard knot. While I was working at them so as to slip a bullet in my gun, Ba'tese was getting closer and I cautiously raised my hand for him to stop and crouch. He did so, but, alas, as he stooped down, on the top of his pack was our copper tea kettle with two pots, and these rattled. Up jumped the bear and stoof facing me. Such a brute, taller than I was, and no doubt the same one I had just tracked. It was too late to get my bullets, so without putting my gun to my shoulder, I threw off my pack and aimed at his heart. Snap, snap, they went, the caps evidently damp with the rain, though I had the nipples covered. The bear wheeled and dashed off the ridge, and I, like a madcap, threw my gun down and ran after him. Ba'tese, throwing off his pack ran after me shouting: "Stop, Ogemasta, stop! Grey bear, bad bear!" For a hundred yards or so I ran him fairly even, but there was a thicket into which he bolted and that was the last we saw of him. We walked back to meet Ba'tese, who came up breathless, he poured out a torrent of words in broken English and French, mixed with Cree, the tenor of which I gathered to be something like this: "What a mad fool you are! Don't you know if you let the monster alone he would probably have killed us both," again repeating the words, "Bad bear, grey bear." I replied that I had never heard of a grey bear. "Oh," he said, "white men have another name for it, plenty on the plains and in the mountains. 'Grizzly bear,' I suggested. "Yes, that is the kind," and then I began to feel frightened."

Germany Protests Occupation

Declares Versailles Treaty Gives Allies No Ground For Invasion.

Berlin.—In a protest to the League of Nations against the infliction of penalties, the German Government claims that the only provisions in the treaty affecting this question are Paragraphs eighteen of appendix two to part eight, and the concluding sections of Article 429 and Article 430. These, it is declared, do not admit of any fresh occupations of German soil beyond the territory west of the Rhine and the bridgeheads.

The German Government further contends that there has been no infringement of obligations justifying the infliction of the economic sanctions, and argues that the levy against German goods is in contradiction to the renunciation by the British, Italian and Belgian Governments of Paragraph 10 of the appendix to the treaty.

The League of Nations is requested to initiate mediation proceedings and to see that the forcible measures the Allies have undertaken be immediately stopped.

The parade was reviewed by Mayor Hyland, former Governor Smith, and a number of Roman Catholic clergy.

Organizations of Irish women, which figured largely in the demonstration, marched with posters expressing all manner of insults to Great Britain.

There was one rift in the lute. One unit of marchers carried a banner inscribed, "much religion as you like from Rome, but no politics." Monsignor Livingstone, acting for Archbishop Hayes, entered a protest against this. Later the committee in charge of the celebration explained that the banner had not been "passed by the censor," but had slipped into the line surreptitiously.

The parade was reviewed by Mayor Hyland, former Governor Smith, and a number of Roman Catholic clergy.

Organizations of Irish women, which figured largely in the demonstration, marched with posters expressing all manner of insults to Great Britain.

There was one rift in the lute. One unit of marchers carried a banner inscribed, "much religion as you like from Rome, but no politics." Monsignor Livingstone, acting for Archbishop Hayes, entered a protest against this. Later the committee in charge of the celebration explained that the banner had not been "passed by the censor," but had slipped into the line surreptitiously.

Sinn Fein Parade in New York

Anti-British Demonstrations Feature Of the St. Patrick Celebrations.

New York.—Turning their annual St. Patrick's Day celebration into a great anti-British demonstration, thousands of Irish residents of New York marched up Fifth Avenue in a parade that lasted three hours. They were watched by thousands of thousands packing the sidewalks and windows along more than seventy blocks of the avenue and overflowing into Central Park and side streets.

The military part of the procession flew the Stars and Stripes, the regimental standard and the banners of the Rainbow division, but over the rest of the line, the green, white and gold colors of Sinn Fein dominated, and the figure of the green flag with golden harp, once the emblem of St. Patrick's Day.

The parade was reviewed by Mayor Hyland

To settle an argument between two of our citizens, we publish the following facts regarding the Island of Anticosti: Anticosti is a barren island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 135 miles long and forty miles at its greatest width. The hills in the interior rise to about six hundred feet. The climate is severe; while the surface is an alternation of rocks and swamps. It is visited by fishermen in the summer, but there are few inhabitants save lighthouse keepers and official residents. The island, which is attached to the Canadian province of Quebec, has considerable salmon, trout, cod and herring fisheries and is a resort for seal and bear hunting. In 1895 the island was purchased by M. Henri Menier, of France, who had much litigation over the rights of some settlers. A decision in his favor was made in 1900.

A WAY TO SAVE MONEY

For the man who can't get along without booze, the following is suggested as a means of freedom. Start a saloon in your own home. Be the only customer. (You save the license fees and other troubles thereby.) Go, hand your wife two dollars to buy a gallon of beer, or hand her the value of a gallon of whiskey, and remember there are sixty-five drinks in a gallon. Buy your drinks from her and no one else, and by the time that the first gallon is gone she will have eight dollars to put in the bank and two dollars to start business with again. Should you live ten years and continue to buy booze from her, and then die with snakes in your boots, she will have enough money left to bury you decently, educate your children, buy a house and lot in Blairmore, and then marry a decent man and quit thinking about you entirely.

UNION CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual meeting of the congregation of the Union Church was held on Tuesday night, when reports from the secretary-treasurer and the secretaries of the various auxiliaries showed that the church under the union plan was in a most flourishing condition. Every department reported favorably, particularly the Sunday School, which had an average attendance for the year of about 120 and has a surplus of funds to its credit after purchasing several hundreds of dollars' worth of literature and supporting missions throughout the year. The Ladies' Aid, by their enterprises, had raised about $600, most of which has been spent in repairs and improvements to church property.

The meeting was presided over by F. M. Pinkney, chairman of the board of management. In his opening remarks, Mr. Pinkney referred to the valuable services rendered by Mr. Young and Mrs. Henderson among the young people, and also those who assisted to nobly in Sunday School and other enterprises of the church. The reports showed that the union plan was working most satisfactorily and the chairman believed that under no other method could the work in Blairmore be maintained. Towards the close, Mr. Young, who has been pastor here for several years, asked the congregation to kindly prepare to relieve him by the end of June. He enjoyed to the full the period of his pastorate of the Union church, but felt duty bound to respond to a call to a larger field of work. He trusted that the church would secure a man to replace him. The meeting decided that the matter be left with the board.

JUDGING BY APPEARANCE

An old gentleman, accompanied by a friend, visited a labor exchange to engage a gardener.

As it happened there were two there waiting and both paraded before him.

One of them was a particularly prepossessing-looking man, while the other was much less so; but after walking carefully round them, and regarding them both intently, the old gentleman engaged the latter.

After they had retired the former expressed surprise at the selection and asked if the man had ever worked for him before.

"No," was the reply; "as a matter of fact I have never seen either of them before."

"Then why did you not choose that one?" enquired the friend. "The other had a much better tone of voice."

"Face!" echoed the old gentleman contemptuously. "Let me tell you something."

"When you choose a gardener, choose him by his knees. If they are patched on the kneecaps, you want him; if they are patched on the seat, you don't."

Hillcrest Happenings

(By Our Own Correspondent)

The government mine rescue car left the week in Hillcrest.

Tom's gang are busy unloading the new generator, which arrived a few days ago.

James Leach has sold his house in Peaceful Valley, the purchaser being John Mackie. Quite a lot of property is changing hands here these days.

It is well-known that we are likely to lose the services of one of our teachers in the near future, in the same old idle way. This is the result of continued visits towards Passburg.

Tom Fox, late of the 82nd and 50th battalions, arrived home on the 16th inst., after being treated at Col. Reicher hospital, Calgary, feeling a lot better.

There was quite a crowd at the Hillcrest depot on Saturday night, the 19th, to bid several of our residents good luck on their journey to the Old Country, where they purpose visiting relatives and friends. Those going were, Mrs. W. Prescott, Miss E. Fox, Mrs. Graven, Mrs. Harris and Richard and Irene Harris. Some are going with intention of staying, if they can, and one is going with intention of bring one back. Let the rest of the world go by!

In spite of the cold weather, the dance put on by the Sheba Jazz Musicians in the Union hall on the 14th inst. was an unqualified success. The boys are to be congratulated on their efforts, and it is to be hoped that we shall be treated to several such parties to liven up the old rig. It might even tempt some of those old fossils to come out once in a while. The music supplied was quite a change from the old dried stuff referred to commonly as funeral dirge. Come again, boys. All kinds of financial support awaits you. Even Mr. O'Neill is willing to dig down.

FOR SALE—$1000 cash will buy a Magnificent Player Piano worth at least $1800. Electric operation, or may be operated by hand Nickel slot. In good condition with lots of up-to-date music. Apply to Tony Pondelick, The Blairmore Ice Cream Parlor.—ad 7

D. B. Cameron, assistant director of the department of extension of the University of Alberta, will deliver an illustrated lecture in the Eagles' hall at Coleman on Friday night. This lecture is the last of the series being delivered under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

Doors of local gambling joints should be wider and higher to permit of the rapid escape of a certain one or two members of the most prominent town organization, who frequent these places and wish to elude the mayor or police. This is merely a suggestion, not meant to infer that the organization has anything undesirable in its makeup (?)

A dance will be given in the Union hall at Hillcrest on Easter Monday night.

"I order go back home just for some things I left as I should have," he said gruffly. He flashed a look from one to the other of the men, then his gaze fell. "I'd sorter like company on account o' the wolves. I ain't sayin' as I'd go along with 'em. Halibut, 'cause I know too much for that. But I could follow him like an' keep close an' he'd be company for me without knowin' it."

He settled lower in his chair, and Watson spoke. "You will make tracks as fast as God 'll let you out of this country, and if you get away safe it's more than you deserve. A pretty pickle you've got us in! Now then, swear you'll get for the States and never show your face in these parts again, or down there in that hole you stay until you can't tell anything you know. See?"

Watson took a roll of greenbacks from his pocket and held it up. "When you're ready to swear that you never heard Smythe here suggest anything, and that you will go where we want you to go—it's yours." Amos glared up and opened his mouth as though to voice a protest, but at sight of the money settled back trembling.

"Be you goin' to give me the money as you promised?" he asked, looking at Smythe and pointing to the bills. "As soon as you hear me say that you were lying when you said I hinted anything to you."

"Course I was lyin'," said Amos with a leer. "You never told me 't do nuthin'." "You hear me Watson," he cried. "Smythe the never told me what I said he did. I were lyin'."

"Heaven forgive us, as I do," murmured Smythe. "Gimme the money," cried Amos. "I promise to get across the border right smart."

"I think," said Smythe, taking the greenbacks from Watson's hand and counting them, "that you ought to have better give you the money, Amos—all but the sixty dollars coming to me for three months' board, and allow you to go in hiding in the cellar again. When the deer Colonel comes, which I am sure he will very soon now, you will wait until he has left for Bushwhacker's Place, then you will bid good-by to this place forever. No one will miss you, Amos, because you have no friends—but that is your own fault. You will always have a troubled conscience for a year or so, but that is also your own fault. Remember, if you are caught—"

Mr. Smythe shifted his long fingers about his thin neck and winked his watery eyes.

"If you are caught, it's all up with you, Amos."

Broodcock arose, his gaunt face twitching. "Gimme another drink and I'll go down in my hole again," he said hoarsely. "You can tell me after Halibut has been here and gone. I want to get away inter the States. You'll let me have a rifle, won't you, men? he begged. "I'm scared of the wolves—they've been bad this winter."

Watson wheeled upon him. "You swear you won't shoot any body," he said.

"Haven't I enough 't answer fer?" groaned the wretch.

All right, then, you can have the rifle."

Then the trap-door fell, and Watson, resuming his seat by the table, looked at Smythe.

"What are we going to do?" he asked.

Smythe shivered and glanced about him. "You haven't anything to hold you here, have you?" asked Watson. "This place is mortgaged for all its worth—and you owe for everything in the store, don't you?"

"Well?"

"I think we will not tempt Providence by remaining here longer," said Smythe. "We'll fit to some far-off land and begin life anew."

"And it don't be a partnership affair, either," said Watson.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Clear Trail.

Colonel Halibut sat before the fire smoking and dreaming. The monotonous winter had proven dear enough for him, accustomed as he was to out-of-doors exercise, and now the splash of rain upon the roof fell on his ears like the tinkle of music.

Stops Bronchitis Quickly. Helps Irritable Throat, Ends Sneezing, Coughing.

Relief comes at once when you breathe in the soothing treatment of Catarrhose. Once its healing, powerful essence strikes the bronchial tubes, you realize that a powerful treatment is at work. Irritation can't live in the throat of a person inhaling Catarrhose. It is so soothing, so warming, so full of concentrated healing power that you get results at once. Catarrhose strengthens the weak throat, stops the cough, removes that hacking irritating necessity to clear the throat, makes even the chronic sufferer realize that at last he has discovered a real friend. For coughs, colds, catarrh and winter ill, nothing in the family could be better than this complete dollar outfit. Small size 50¢ trial size 25¢ all dealers or the Catarrhose Co., Montreal.

Every morning for three months the Colonel had said himself that he would visit those outlaws as soon as the trail was clear, and demand that the man who burned his eyes should himself up. But for three months the trail remained choked and the Colonel, weary of his own life, was venturing any distance from shelter. However, spring would now soon come and he would have to face the world as he found it. To-morrow, Watson took a roll of greenbacks from his pocket and held it up.

"When you're ready to swear that you never heard Smythe here suggest anything, and that you will go where we want you to go—it's yours." Amos glared up and opened his mouth as though to voice a protest, but at sight of the money settled back trembling.

The Experiment Farms System

Experimental Farms System of Canada Not Appreciated as it Should Be.

Remark has several times been made in parliament and elsewhere that the splendid work performed by the experimental farms system of Canada is not nearly so widely known and appreciated as it should be. In The Agricultural Gazette of Canada for January there appears an outline of the system and the tasks in which it is engaged. The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa is the headquarters of the twenty branch or auxiliary farms and stations. It is stated that there is one farm in each of the provinces of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Ontario, two in Nova Scotia, four in Quebec, two in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, two in Alberta and four in British Columbia. There are also two sub-stations in Alberta, two in the Yukon and one in British Columbia.

In addition, working with the system are tobacco stations at Farnham, Que., and Harrow, Ont. At all of these experimental and research work of national importance is carried on. Eighty illustrations of demonstration stations have also been established in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Each branch of agriculture is dealt with in actual experiment, and the results are made public through the press and by means of addresses, demonstrations and exhibits. In short every effort is made to encourage, advance and benefit agriculture, the basic industry of the country.

Alberta Eggs Compete With the Best

Future of Poultry Industry in Province is Very Bright.

Through a proper service of egg marketing the standard of Alberta eggs has been raised during the last three or four years to where they are considered first-class on the British market and the future of the poultry industry in the province is very bright. H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta is the authority for this assertion.

"There was a time," says Mr. Craig, "when eggs were kept in the farm for a week after they were laid, and later kept in the country store for a week or more. The result was that by the time they reached the consumer they were often not fit for use. This condition was for Alberta eggs the reputation of being the worst in Canada. The market service was established to correct this condition. During the past three or four years the standard of Alberta eggs has been raised to where they can successfully compete with the best. This has been brought about by the establishment of a system of buying eggs according to quality by which the producer got paid for the quality of the eggs he offered, thus giving him some encouragement to put out a good product on the market."

Some men are poor because they are honest and some men are honest because they are rich and can afford to be.

Infants up to a few months of age have no sense of taste.

"You are, sir."

"And you think they'll find it out—you do, don't you?"

"They'll find it out, I tell you, with a later, sir. They'll wish 't savers would fall an' cover 'em, sir, I'm thinkin'."

Dick would answer solemnly and the Colonel would slap him on the back and tell him that there was some hope for him yet.

"Very often the big man would prefer to be alone, and there in his great chair he would sit listening to the wind moaning through the bare trees. Very often his thought would stray away back to the far-away days when he roamed the hills and valleys of

Alberta Beef For Great Britain

Stockmen Planning to Open New Market For Their Cattle.

Alberta stockmen are now proposing to open a new market in Great Britain for their cattle, whether or not the present embargo on Canadian store cattle into that country is removed. A number of prominent ranchers are now making arrangements to send to England a number in ten days of their arrival at a number of live cattle which have been grain fed during the past winter, and the result of such a move will be watched by shippers throughout the prairie provinces.

Under existing regulations the animals will have to be slaughtered within ten days of their arrival at a British port. A considerable business, however, along these lines has already been built up by shippers from the Eastern Canadian provinces, and the great divergence between the price of meat in the two countries is tempting the western stockmen to follow their example.

It is stated that Scotch and English feed prime beefs, are selling at about twenty-four cents a pound on foot, a tremendous increase over the prices paid at Canadian and American stock markets. As the animals would be paid for in British currency there would be the difference in exchange to be taken into consideration and probable loss in weight, transportation and also an allowance in the appearance of the meat when placed on the market for sale. However, notwithstanding all this the Alberta stockmen who are making the experiment are inclined to the belief that there should be a sufficient spread left to make the venture profitable.

Grain Movement At Lake Ports

Enormous Quantity of Wheat Handled by Canadian Elevators.

With one hundred and thirty-seven million, five hundred thousand, five hundred and ninety bushels passing through its elevators, Fort William and Port Arthur lead all points on the American continent in the amount of wheat handled in 1920, according to the report issued by the grain commissioner. The ports were second in oats, fourth in barley and third in flax. Minneapolis came second, with one hundred and twelve million bushels handled.

20,000 Children Die Violent Deaths

Red Cross Figures of Fatal Accidents In U.S. are Alarming.

Figures compiled by the Red Cross prove that in the United States, 20,000 children, under fourteen years of age, each, meet violent deaths. Burns, falls, automobile and other vehicular accidents, drowning and poisoning exact the heaviest toll of child life. Forty per cent of the children who die before reaching their fifth birthday are killed accidentally, while almost 20 per cent of the deaths claiming those between five and fourteen result from accidents, the compilation showed. After fourteen, accidents cause proportionately fewer deaths. First-aid instruction given swimmers throughout the country by the Red Cross had reduced drowning fatalities from 10,000 to 5,000 annually, the statement said.

An Engraving Wonder

Lord's Prayer on Head of Ordinary Steel Pin.

J. O. Lowder has on display at his shooting gallery in Newburn, N.C., an ordinary steel pin on the head of which is engraved the Lord's Prayer. The engraving is the work of C. H. Baker of Spokane, Wash., and the job required three years to complete, according to Mr. Lowder. There are 65 words, 254 letters and 19 punctuation marks on the pin head, and each is so perfectly formed that beneath a magnifying glass they stand out clearly and can be read with ease.

The Pathephone

THE MOST REMARKABLE MUSICAL INSTRUMENT IN THE WORLD

Reasons Why You Should Own This Perfect Instrument

It has the sweetest tone. It is by far the most artistic of any musical instrument. It gives the most natural sound reproduction. It plays all makes of disc records perfectly.

It uses a genuine, round, highly polished permanent Sapphire Ball when playing Pathe Discs. This sapphire never wears out and does not injure the surface of the record.

It is made with an all-wood sound chamber, amplifying the music in the fullest manner. It has the most superior record repertory in the world, comprising selections recorded in every musical centre.

Discs are all double-faced, including all operatic selections. It has a perfect Tone Control device for expansion and volume. In playing the Pathephone there are no needles to change, no metal points to dig into and ruin the surface of the records. It can be bought at from $70 upwards.
